

The Ecole d'Humanité is located in the alpine village of Hasliberg Goldern in Switzerland, just off the rail line between Interlaken and Lucerne. Surrounded by the awe-inspiring peaks of the Bernese Oberland, our school is home to students and adults from some different countries. The stunning natural setting provides both and exceptional opportunities for outdoor activities including hiking, skiing, and climbing.

Each family is headed by two or three teachers and lives in one of the school's chalets. Families eat together in the common dining hall, and each Wednesday is a dedicated Family Evening when Ecole families spend time together playing games, cooking, or working on projects. Living in a mixed group of students of both sexes and various ages and cultures helps everyone to

The Ecole d'Humanité functions as a community and students take charge of such important tasks as organizing weekend activities, delivering re-wood, taking care of the goats, running the library, and raising awareness of global and environmental issues. Some are active in the Student Council or involved in peer counseling. Everyone participates in the weekly school meeting, which is chaired by students. At this weekly Schulgemeinde, students can address both individual and community concerns, learning to find their own voices within a public forum.

By limiting both material and electronic consumerism, we at(m)501-5e) 4 week rather than surface knowledge. Unlike most high schools, Ecole students focus on three academic subjects per trimester. This allows them to concentrate on each one with special intensity. (student-teacher ratio is 6:1)

APID is granted by the College Board to students for AP exams. These exams qualify students for AP credit.

The APID is granted by the College Board to stu